

Bases of Neuropathology

Biography of I.P. Antonov

Ignatiy Petrovich Antonov (1922-2015)

an outstanding Belarusian scientist, neurologist, academician of the National Academy of Sciences of Belarus, corresponding member of the Russian Academy of Medical Sciences, honored scientist of Belarus, laureate of the State Prize of Belarus, national physician of Belarus, honorary citizen of Minsk and Vitebsk

Life Background Information

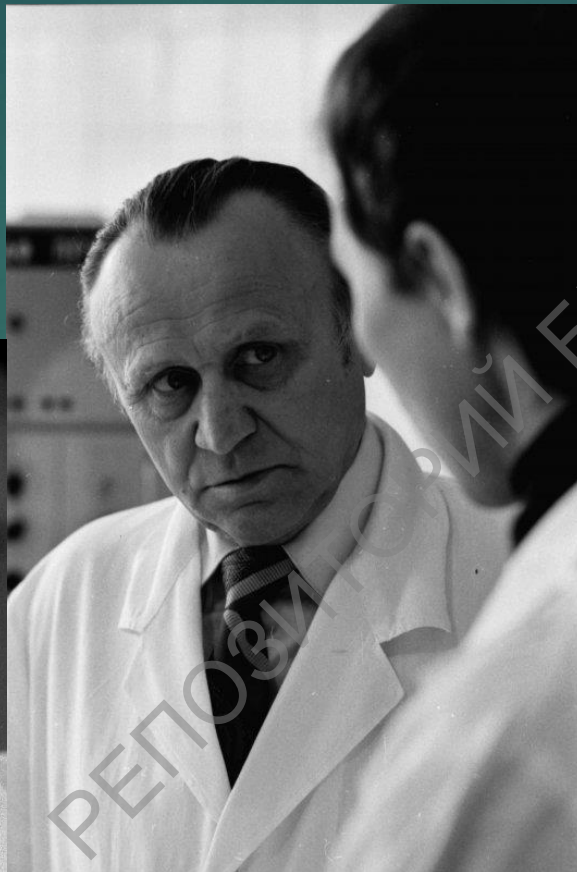

- ❖ Born in 1922 in the village of Budnitsa in the Surazh district of the Vitebsk region
- ❖ In 1940 graduated with honors from the Vitebsk obstetric school and entered the Vitebsk Medical Institute
- ❖ But soon the Great Patriotic war interrupted his studies. As a military paramedic he passed from Stalingrad to Koenigsberg, carried out 128 wounded from the battlefield. Participated in the battles for Minsk liberation
- ❖ In 1950 graduated with honors from the Minsk Medical Institute

Yesterday's soldier
Ignatiy Petrovich with his wife

Life Background Information

- ❖ 1950-1955 – researcher in the Research Institute of Neurology, Neurosurgery & Physiotherapy
- ❖ 1955-1962 – assistant, then associate Professor of the Department of nervous diseases of the Belarusian Institute of Advanced Medical Studies
- ❖ 1962-1998 – director of the Research Institute of Neurology, Neurosurgery & Physiotherapy
- ❖ 1998-2008 – chief scientific consultant of the Republican Research & Clinical Center of Neurology & Neurosurgery
- ❖ Died in 2015 in Minsk

The everyday work of
I.P. Antonov

Remembering those years of fighting ...

Main works of I.P. Antonov

- ❖ "Hyperkinesia in children" (1975)
- ❖ "Vertebral-basilar strokes" (1977)
[for this work was awarded a nominal prize of the Russian Academy of Medical Sciences V.M. Bekhterev]
- ❖ "Guidelines for the diagnosis and prognosis of nervous diseases in tables and lists" (1986)
- ❖ "Low back pain" (1989)
- ❖ "Nervous system diseases" (1992)

The author of about 600 scientific papers

Some monographs of I.P. Antonov

Professional achievements

- ❖ Honored scientist of Belarus (1972)
- ❖ Corresponding member of the Russian Academy of Medical Sciences (1974)
- ❖ Academician of the National Academy of Sciences of Belarus (1984)
- ❖ National physician of Belarus (1992, certificate №1)
- ❖ State Prize of Belarus in the field of science (1994)
- ❖ Chairman of the Scientific Medical Council and member of the board of the Ministry of Health of Belarus
- ❖ Member of the Expert Council of the Higher Attestation Commission of Belarus
- ❖ Under his leadership, 23 doctoral and 45 master's theses defended

Awards & recognition

- ❖ Order of the Red Star (1943), order of the Patriotic war II degree (1944), two orders of Patriotic war I degree (1945, 1985), 14 medals, including "For courage" (1943)
- ❖ Order of the Red Banner of Labor (1971), order of Friendship of Peoples (1981), Belarusian order of the Fatherland III degree (1997), order of the Fatherland II degree (2005)
- ❖ Honorary citizen of the city of Minsk (1988) and Vitebsk (1997)
- ❖ In 2002 the International Biographical Center in Cambridge (UK) introduced the name of I.P. Antonov in the book "2000 outstanding people of the XX century" and awarded him the medal "For outstanding achievements"

A memorial plaque at the entrance to the Republican Research & Clinical Center of Neurology & Neurosurgery, which for many years was headed by I.P. Antonov

I.P. Antonov's grave at Vostochnoye cemetery (Minsk)