

- TYPES OF PARENTAL
LOVE

Types of parental love. Parent position

Effective love

(sympathy, respect, closeness). The formula of parental family education is: "I want my child to be happy, and I will help him in this."

Detached love

(sympathy, respect, but a great distance with the child). "I don't have much time to

Effective pity

- (sympathy, intimacy, but lack of respect). "My child is not like everyone else. Although my child is not smart enough and physically developed, but still this is my child and I love him"

Love is like an indulgent detachment

(long interpersonal distance).

“You can't blame my child for being young and physically underdeveloped.”

Rejection (antipathy, disrespect, great interpersonal distance).

"This child makes me uncomfortable and cannot deal with him"

Contempt (antipathy, disrespect, small interpersonal distance).

"I suffer, I suffer impartially because my child is so underdeveloped, unintelligent, stubborn, cowardly, unpleasant to other people"

The love of the payoff

Parents see their duty. The family reigns the atmosphere of spiritual emptiness, poverty.

Despotic love

A child from an early age distorts the idea of a good beginning in a person; he stops believing in a person and humanity.

Unconditional love does not depend:

- nor the appearance of the child,
- nor on its strengths and weaknesses,
- neither of abilities
- nor from today's behavior.

"How do I warm my child,
how do I show my love for him?"